● Trauma Informed Positive Behaviour Support for Children and Young People

Providing trauma informed behaviour support to children and young people who have experienced trauma and abuse is an essential skill for professionals in Out of Home Care, disability, youth work, schools and family work. At this practical hands-on training, gain an understanding of the impact of trauma on physical and brain development in children and young people, and the different ways in which trauma presents, including behaviors of concern, and how they can be understood through considering the contexts and environments of the young people.

You will also learn the principles of positive behaviour support in line with current research, legislation and industry standards of practice, and practical strategies on engaging with and supporting children and young people. This course is delivered in a one or two-day format.

● Proactive Approach to Safe Incident Intervention (PASII)

Safely manage challenging and high-risk behaviours (including critical incidents) using a person centred framework. This two-day course covers comprehensive and systematic approach to prevent, predict, assess and manage incidents, minimize risk and provide positive outcomes for clients and staff. Explore neurodevelopment and trauma informed practice to gain deeper understanding of clients, challenging behaviours and the communicative function behind them.

Included in the course are observation, communication and physical management strategies, self-care, incident response planning, and working within legislative, ethical, and clinically informed practice framework.

● Trauma Informed Positive Behaviour Support for People with Disabilities

This course will provide you with an understanding of the principles of positive behaviour support in line with current legislation and industry standards of practice. Staff providing support to people with disabilities who may engage in challenging behaviour require special skills, and an understanding of why people demonstrate challenging behaviour, and how they can effectively support someone who does.

Participants will be introduced to the theory behind understanding challenging behaviour, and also learn about practical, every-day strategies that can be used to prevent challenging behaviour from occurring, and also effectively supporting the person when they do demonstrate behaviours of concern. Information will be presented using a person-centred framework.
